Educational Programs At The Banning Museum

The Banning Museum is proud to offer a series of educational programs designed to engage and inspire the students who participate. Thousands of schoolchildren both locally and throughout Southern California take part in our programs each year. It is our goal to provide them with a memorable experience that will instill in them a love of history that will last a lifetime and an appreciation of the important role Southern California played in the growth of our nation.

Currently, our programming includes:

- Living History School Program, for fourth-grade students
- Banning Heritage Week, for fourth-grade students
- Evolution of a Town, for third-grade students

Activities are carefully chosen to give the children insight into life in Los Angeles in the 19th century. From school lessons to crafts and tours of the Museum, the students glimpse what it was like to be a child before the days of television, computers and the Internet – often quite an enlightening experience for all!

We welcome inquiries from educators and the community about our programs and look forward to the opportunity to share these wonderful experiences with many more children in the years to come.
